John:

I am parceling out some of the speaking invitations we received. You might like to take on the attached. If you only wish to speak, and would like to pass on the seminar, we can arrange that.

This is a prestigious college society

I think you would be great before this group and it could be a one-day venture. Wouldn't take much of your time.

If you decide you want to do it, any preference for summer or fall?

Dear Mr. Casey:

The American Whig-Clisophic Society would be extremely honored if you would speak at Princeton University sometime in the Spring or Fall of 1984.

The American Whig-Clisophic Society was founded in 1765 and has since flourished on Princeton University's campus. It is now the world's oldest continuously existing college literary, political, and debating society, and it has long been Princeton's largest student organization.

Whig-Clio has a long-standing commitment to speech and political debate. As part of this commitment, we invite speakers of national and international importance to Princeton University. Past speakers have included Jacob Javits, Jerry Falwell, Golda Meir, Potter Stewart, Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford, Walter Cronkite, Zbigniew Brzezinski, and Chai Zemin, Ambassador of the People's Republic of China.

We would be very pleased to have you join us as well.

Because we are setting up our schedule for the coming year we are very flexible with regard to dates and times for your appearance. Our usual program is an afternoon seminar, a dinner with students and faculty, and an early evening speech. However, we can arrange whatever sort of appearance you might prefer.

I hope to hear from you soon and look forward to the opportunity of meeting you.

Sincerely,

Katharine L. Sonnenberg
Secretary of the Society
